Fishing Report

My Story

Amistad is a lake of many faces. Look for smallmouth bass up the Pecos and Devils River arms. Look for white bass schooling under birds during what passes for winter in South Texas; in the spring they'll make a spawning run up the rivers; the Pecos is the best bet. Amistad also has striped bass, though not many people target them. As with white bass, the key is to look for schooling fish in open water. When they're feeding on the surface, they'll hit whatever you throw at them. The same is true
